Hey friend,
I'm coming in hot right now because I am almost done with my barn series!
Really quick, I wanted to share a little inspiration video with you and also a little bit more about why I love painting the old barns so much.

Enjoy!

Check out my barn inspiration here!

I grew up in a small town and my family always owned horses and cows. So growing up "in the country" was our way of life, and I absolutely loved it. The texture of an old barn or fence, or grass growing in the fields remind me of my childhood days. Unfortunately, many of these old structures are falling victim to time and neglect, but still are a direct link to the past, and the present. These barns tell a story, too, if we could only listen to them, to me, they are the heart and soul of this great country. Even my studio walls are made from reclaimed wood from a historic barn that was torn down, so my inspiration, is quite literally, everywhere. Now, I am lucky enough to call Tennessee home, and the rolling hills and landscape are truly inspiring to me and beautiful. In my own little way, I want to pay homage to that.

"These barns are the heart and soul of this great country."
